

Lansdowne & Company wins first place in WirtschaftsWoche magazine’s Best of Consulting competition in the “Restructuring” category

In its annual “Best of Consulting SME” competition, WirtschaftsWoche magazine placed Lansdowne & Company at the top of the list in the category “Restructuring” for 2017.

This is the eighth time the business magazine has handed out its “Best of Consulting” award, in which it crowns the best management consultancies in Germany. The business magazine’s goal with the ranking is to help companies find the best-possible consultant for their projects on the basis of purely objective criteria.

We view this award as a sign that our approach to consulting and the services we provide have put us on a successful path that will allow us to continue delivering significant value to our current and future clients when it comes to the strategic management of their companies and investments.

With this in mind, we want to thank all of our clients and business partners for joining us on this exciting journey and thereby making our success possible in the first place.
